

Are you...? Hangman

Secretly write a true sentence starting with "I am..." like "I am cold" or "I am a boy", using words like those on the next page. Write the sentence where people can see it, but with just gaps for each letter of the last word ("I am _ _ _ _", "I am a _ _ _", etc). Write a letter in one of the gaps, e.g. "_ _ g _ _" and answer a question about that word from your partner with "Are you...?" such as "Are you hungry?" Continue adding letters until the word is finished or your partner asks the right "Are you...?" question.

Suggested answers

"No, I'm not."

"Yes, I am, but that's not the answer."

"Yes, I am. That's the answer. One point."

Do the same with more than one word, as in "I am nine years old" and "I am the oldest brother".

Play a similar game but also guessing the letters (without any letter clues from the person who wrote the sentence).

Language presentation

Without looking below, write things that are true about at least one person in this class in the right columns below.

I'm a.../ I'm an.../ Are you a...?/ Are you an...?	I'm.../ Are you...? (without a/ an)

Look below for ideas, then brainstorm more.

Suggested words for “I am...” and “Are you...?” sentences

(your name)

American

English

Japanese

a boy

a brother/ a sister

cold

a daughter

eight

a father/ a mother

forty nine

a girl

happy

hot

hungry

a man/ a woman

nine

quiet

seven

short

six

sleepy/ tired

small

a son

a student

tall

a teacher

thin

young

Do the same with more than one word, like:

on a chair

in the classroom

under the light

in Tokyo

from Japan

eight years old