Business English- Comparing products using comparative and superlative adjectives

Work in groups of three or four. Choose a kind of product such as one of the ones below and compare it to other products on the market to make it sound good, using your imagination as much as you like. You can only use one superlative adjective and one comparative adjective to do so, e.g. “It’s the… est product of this kind on the market” and “It’s more… than most equivalent products”, and people can’t use the same adjective more than once. Someone else in your group will use two different adjectives in the same way. Perhaps after asking for more information about the products, the other person or people in your group should choose which one of those two products of the same type they would be likely to buy (as a consumer or B2B buyer). Then switch roles and products and do the same again.

Useful phrases
“It’s the… est product of this kind on the market”
“It’s more… than most equivalent products”,
“I’ll take it”
“To be honest I’m not really interested, because…”
