

How Many Are There- Trivia Quiz with number word recognition practice

Listen to an easy trivia question and race to do the thing(s) from the list below that your teacher tells you to:

- Shout out the answer as a number
- Shout out the answer as a full sentence
- Write the answer as figures
- Write the answer as a number word (with the correct spelling)
- Write the answer as a full sentence
- Slap the right number on a card, the worksheet or the board
- Throw something at the right number on the board

Do the same, but with a student asking the questions.

Do the same, but giving options with questions like “Are there three or four ...s...?” or “Are there seven or fourteen ...s ...?”

Make up similar questions to test another group with. Your teacher will tell you if you can do any research or not, and if you can use personal information in questions like “How many train lines are there at my closest station?”
