

Numbers and units in English Same or Different

Work together and try to work out or guess which things below are the same or different

- the normal pronunciations of 0.5 in British and American English
- 1/2 in normal speech and 1/2 when stressing the number or being very precise
- 30-0 in tennis and in other sports
- two numbers the same next to each other in a telephone number, and a glass of whiskey which contains twice as much as a single
- three numbers the same next to each other in a telephone number, and a whiskey which is three times as big as a single
- the normal ways of saying 2/3, 4/5 etc, and the normal way of saying 223/978, 97/145 etc.
- 5th and 1/5
- The normal pronunciations of 5,100 in British and American English
- The normal pronunciations of 5,010 in British and American English
- 2000 as a year and number
- 1800 as a year and engine size
- 1920 as a year and number
- the shortest forms of forty degrees Celsius and forty degrees Fahrenheit
- the pronunciation of the British currency and the unit Americans weigh themselves in
- the normal pronunciations of 2 2 20 and 1:40
- the pronunciation of "15cm" in "A 15 cm ruler" and "It is 15 cm long"
- the pronunciations of "note" and "nought"
- the meanings of nought, nil, love and zero
- a British pint and an American pint
- the Os in the American English pronunciation of 0.05
- the Os in the British English pronunciation of 0.05
- nought point seven five percent and three quarters of one percent
- sixteen hundred hours, four p.m. and four o'clock in the afternoon
- oh two hundred hours, two a.m. and two o'clock in the morning
- the pronunciation of 911 and 9/11