

Personal Pronouns and Possessive Adjectives Memory Games

Stage 1: Personal pronouns and possessive adjectives disappearing text games

Choose one of the pairs of sentences below and say the whole thing. Cover one word with a small piece of blank paper. Can your partner say the whole thing, including the covered word? If they can, they can then cover another word and test you in the same way.

Continue saying the whole thing and covering the text until the whole thing is covered or one person can't remember a covered word. Then play the same game with other things from below.

This	is	his	bath.	He	has a	bath	at	ten	ten.

This	is	my	bed.	I	go
to	bed	at	nine	thirty.

This	is	her	breakfast.	She	eats
breakfast	at	seven	forty	five.

This	is	our	dinner.	We	have dinner	at	eight	forty.

This	is	our	home.	We	come home	at	three	fifty	five.

This	is	your	homework.	You	do
your	homework	at	eleven	o'clock.

This	is	my	lunch.	I	have lunch	at	eleven	fifty.

This	is	their	school.	They	leave school	at	two	thirty	five.

This	is	her	shower.	She	has a	shower	at	seven	twenty.

This	is	his	television.	He	watches
TV	at	five	oh	five.

Do the same, but doing four sentences from above at the same time.

Write similar sentences in the blank boxes below then pass them to another group to play the same game with.

Blank boxes to put your own sentences in

Stage 2: Personal pronouns and possessive adjectives drawing games

Draw two sentences from above and see if your partner can say the sentences. If the drawing isn't enough, draw more or give them other hints such as one or two key words.

Draw things belonging to you and your family and tell your partner about whose they are and how and when people use them.

Stage 3: Personal pronouns and possessive adjectives mixing up games

Take a cut-up version of one of the pairs of sentences above and mix it up. How quickly can your partner put the two sentences back into order?

Play the same game, but this time with one of the cards face down. Your partner must put them in order and say the whole thing without turning that card over. Then turn the card over to check.

Play the same game with more and more cards face down.
