

Proverbs bluff

Teacher's instructions

Give out one or more proverbs to each person or group and ask them to create two false definitions for the proverb that is there, e.g. "Children who are hungry get really loud" for "Empty vessels make most noise". They should then read all three definitions to some other people and see if they can fool some of them about which definition is correct.

They could then do the same with proverbs that they know (including testing the teacher on translated ones from their own language) or find in a dictionary or online.
