The last time you... Guessing Game and Narrative Tenses Review
Past Simple, Past Continuous and Past Perfect

Try to make true sentences about your partner with any of the sentences stems below. You get one point for each true sentence. Feel free to ask for more details about their experiences (or lack of experience) if you like, then switch roles and continue the game.

The last time you had insomnia, ______________________
The last time you felt really satisfied, ______________________
The last time you had a conversation about religion, ______________________
The last time you felt really annoyed, ______________________
The last time you stood in a long queue, ______________________
When you last felt upset, ______________________
When you last felt fed up, ______________________
When you last felt frustrated, ______________________
When you last felt under pressure, ______________________
The last time you used a microwave, ______________________
The last time you had a lie in, ______________________
The last time you felt shattered (= exhausted= very tired), ______________________
The last time you felt furious, ______________________
The last time you felt absolutely freezing, ______________________
The last time you set off for somewhere before five o’clock in the morning, __________
The last time someone asked you for a recommendation, ______________________

What tenses did you use in your sentences and why?
What are the differences between those tenses?
What other tenses might have been possible?
Match these possible endings to the sentences above you were trying to meet a deadline the person in the next room was snoring loudly all night you hadn’t seen them for over a year you hit the person who was irritating you you had just seen a spider was in a church was when you had finished all your end of year exams you were waiting for a bus you had been drinking the night before and had a hangover you were preparing dinner you had just discovered something your brother or sister had broken you hadn’t slept for over 24 hours your pet had died

Identify the tenses above and why they are used each time.

Could you change any of the tenses above? How would that change the meaning?