

Which thing had already happened- Past Perfect trivia quiz

Choose one of the pairs of events on your worksheet and read them out as they are, without changing the tenses or the order. Your partner should read them back in the same order but add the correct tenses and the word “when” to make the sentence grammatically and factually correct. For example, for “Queen Victoria dies” and “Winston Churchill is born”, they could say “Queen Victoria had (already) died when Winston Churchill was born” or “When Queen Victoria died, Winston Churchill had (already) been born”, depending on which they think is true. The underlined sentence is the earlier one in each case. Tell them that they are right or say the correct sentence, do the same with your partner’s pair of events, then take turns guessing until your teacher stops you.

Student A

dinosaurs die out the first mammals develop

Catherine Parr marries English King Henry VIII
he executes two wives

British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain declares "Peace in our time"
World War Two starts

Americans walk on the moon President Kennedy (=JFK) dies

the British use concentration camps (in South Africa) the Germans use concentration camps

Lee Harvey Oswald lives in the USSR he shoots JFK dead

Vincent Van Gogh dies
he sells his first painting

Americans go to space Russians go to space

Prime Minister Winston Churchill loses the national election
World War Two ends

the Japanese bomb Pearl Harbour the Japanese invade China homo sapiens appears humans make the first stone tools

English republican leader Oliver Cromwell dies he is hanged for treason against the king

Julius Caesar is assassinated Rome gets an Emperor the first commercial satellite is launched the first spy satellite is launched

Student B

British women get the right to vote
New Zealand women get the right to vote

Napoleon is defeated at the Battle of Waterloo he is exiled to the Mediterranean island Elba

Tony Blair become British Prime Minister Tony Blair promises Gordon Brown he can be the next Prime Minister

Prince Charles dates Camilla Parker Bowles, his future second wife he marries Lady Diana Spencer, his first wife

Neil Armstrong, the first man to walk on the moon, is born Orville Wright, the inventor of powered flight, dies the population of Alexandria in Egypt reaches one million the population of Beijing in China reaches one million

Americans fight in the Vietnam War JFK becomes American president the first jet fighter flies

World War Two ends

Americans win independence from the British the French revolution starts the American army arrives in Nazi Berlin the Russian army arrives in Nazi Berlin

Gandhi is shot dead India achieves independence from the British Empire

Stonehenge is built in southern Britain the Cheops pyramid is built in Egypt the first Captain America comic is published the first Superman comic is published founder of Islam Muhammad is born founder of Sikhism Guru Nanak is born